

An aerial photograph of the Docklands area in Melbourne, Australia, during the golden hour of sunset. The sky is a mix of soft orange and pale blue. In the foreground, a large body of water is filled with numerous boats and yachts docked at piers. A prominent white cylindrical building with a distinctive patterned facade stands out among the modern high-rise buildings. To the left, a large Ferris wheel is visible against the horizon. The overall scene is a vibrant urban waterfront.

FAQS

Are there any noise restrictions?

Yes – we have a sound limit of 96dB, which your DJ will confirm is plenty loud for a great party atmosphere.

What AV is available?

All rooms come equipped with a built-in sound system and a wireless microphone. We also offer 85” screens for hire and have additional custom lighting options available. For a full overview, please refer to the venue’s asset list.

Does this space have access to the balcony?

The Victoria Room doesn’t have direct balcony access, but where possible, we’re happy to offer access to the Waterfront Terrace. For guests who wish to smoke, they’re welcome to head downstairs to find a suitable outdoor area.
