

OCN London accredited qualifications, updated for the world your learners are entering

New content covering AI, cyber security and sustainability, now embedded across OCN London's most popular qualifications.

AI, cyber security and sustainability are now core expectations across every industry. Your learners need to be ready, and your programme needs to reflect that. OCN London has developed new content across all three themes, available to embed directly into your existing qualifications or as standalone CPD activity. With delivery supported through free online resources, there is a route that works for you.

Embedded units

New content integrated directly into your existing qualifications. Entry Level to Level 2.

Free online delivery resources

Ready-to-use resources, free of charge, to support confident delivery with minimal prep time.

Standalone microcredentials

Flexible, non-assessed credentials. Ideal for staff and wider teams.

Your learners are entering a workplace that expects AI literacy, digital confidence and sustainability awareness. Your provision can now reflect exactly that.

Helping you keep your provision up to date

New content covering Safe Use of AI, Cyber Security and Sustainability is now built into our most popular qualifications, across three flexible delivery options.

Embedded units at Entry Level to Level 2

New units have been integrated into our most widely delivered qualifications, spanning Entry Level to Level 2, including the Progression Qualifications Suite, Employability, Skills for Professions (Building and Construction, Digital Industries, Business Administration and Finance, Horticulture, Engineering), Skills for Further Study, Skills for Vocational Studies, SEND Employability and Progression, and the Level 2 Award in Skills for Professions for the Creative and Digital Industries.

No curriculum redesign needed. The content becomes a natural part of what you already deliver.

Free online delivery resources

A full suite of free online resources is included with every unit, carefully designed to support engaging and effective delivery. These materials are ready to use straight away, significantly reducing preparation time and enabling you to deliver with confidence from the start. With no additional cost and no need to develop content yourself, they provide a reliable, high-quality solution that enhances both teaching and the learner experience.

Standalone microcredentials

For organisations looking to deliver this content outside of a full qualification, our standalone microcredentials provide a flexible and scalable solution. Designed without formal assessment, they are ideal for staff development, wider workforce training, or as a valuable addition to existing programmes. With minimal administrative burden and a focus on recognising achievement, they offer an efficient way to upskill learners and enhance your provision.

Making Learning Matter

Keeping your provision relevant is what your learners and their future employers need. OCN London is here to make that straightforward.
