

The Graham Saunders Scholarship

Graham Saunders was a champion of humanitarian shelter and was very keen to professionalise the sector to increase the quality of services provided to affected people. He was very supportive of the work of the Centre for Development and Emergency Practice (CENDEP) at Oxford Brookes University, and fostered a long lasting and strong collaboration between CENDEP and IFRC.

Graham's family have kindly expressed a wish to set up a scholarship in his name providing support to dedicated international students wishing to start a life-long career that will bring long-term benefits to communities facing hardship worldwide.

If you would like to remember Graham Saunders by supporting a CENDEP student, please give online by going to:

www.brookes.ac.uk/support-cendep

The Centre for Development and Emergency Practice (CENDEP) is a multidisciplinary centre that brings together aid workers, academics and development practitioners to develop practice-oriented approaches in disaster risk reduction and response, shelter after disaster, chronic poverty, community development, building urban resilience, conflict transformation, refugee studies and torture prevention.

Additional information about CENDEP can be found here:

<http://architecture.brookes.ac.uk/research/cendep>

The Graham Saunders Scholarship

Graham Saunders was a champion of humanitarian shelter and was very keen to professionalise the sector to increase the quality of services provided to affected people. He was very supportive of the work of the Centre for Development and Emergency Practice (CENDEP) at Oxford Brookes University, and fostered a long lasting and strong collaboration between CENDEP and IFRC.

Graham's family have kindly expressed a wish to set up a scholarship in his name providing support to dedicated international students wishing to start a life-long career that will bring long-term benefits to communities facing hardship worldwide.

If you would like to remember Graham Saunders by supporting a CENDEP student, please give online by going to:

www.brookes.ac.uk/support-cendep

The Centre for Development and Emergency Practice (CENDEP) is a multidisciplinary centre that brings together aid workers, academics and development practitioners to develop practice-oriented approaches in disaster risk reduction and response, shelter after disaster, chronic poverty, community development, building urban resilience, conflict transformation, refugee studies and torture prevention.

Additional information about CENDEP can be found here:

<http://architecture.brookes.ac.uk/research/cendep>