

The wolf and the seven little kids: key story stages

- Mother goat tells her seven kids to be careful of the wolf with his growling voice and his black feet.
- The wolf pretends to be mother. The kids don't trust his growling voice so he sweetens the sound of it with honey.
- The wolf pretends to be mother again. The kids don't trust his black feet so he whitens them with flour.
- Kids (fooled this time) open the door and let him in. He swallows six of them whole; the seventh hides in the grandfather clock.
- Wolf (full) falls asleep under a tree.
- Mother goat returns, finds the seventh kid, hears the story and then sees the wolf.
- She cuts open wolf's belly, releases the six kids (still alive), fills the wolf's belly with stones and sews him up.
- Wolf wakes, thirsty, and drinks from well, into which he slips and sinks.
- Mother goat and seven kids dance round the well.

For more stories like this, visit www.storymuseum.org.uk/1001stories