French Film Festival

From 5th to 15th October; Cinema São Jorge and Cinemateca Portuguesa; Av. da Liberdade (metro: Avenida); Cinema NOS Amoreiras; Av. Eng. Duarte Pacheco (buses: 713, 774, 758). Tickets: 5 euros, general. More information at: festadocinemafrances.com

‘Bold, free and creative’, this is how one might describe the 24th edition of the French Film Festival which starts with the exhibition of ‘Jeanne du Barry – The King’s Favourite’, a film directed by Maïwenn that opened the last edition of the Cannes Film Festival. The many foreseen sessions once again include a selection of premieres of newly produced works in France and sections like ‘Cinema à Mesa’ (‘Cinema at the Table’), dedicated to gastronomy or the new section ‘Pronto-a-Filmar’ (‘Ready to Film’) with two films dedicated to fashion. Other highlights of the festival are the film ‘Second Chance’ which confirms the opportunity to see some films on the big screen once again, and the meetings with filmmakers Cristèle Alves Meira, who brings the feature film ‘Alma Viva’, and Maria de Medeiros, who presents the restored copy of her film ‘Capitães de Abril’, anticipating the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the revolution on 25th April 1974.
The entire world will fit in Lisbon at the latest edition of DocLisboa, which brings to the citys screens the very best of what the seventh art has to offer globally. The Heart Beat section, symbolising the pulsating heart of cinema, features such films as Ospina Cali Colombia by Jorge de Carvalho, Joan Baez I Am Noise by Karen O'Connor, Maeve O’Boyle and Miri Navaski, Nôs Dança by Rui Lopes da Silva, Creature by Asif Kapadia and Nam June Paik: Moon is the Oldest TV by Amanda Kim. There are five other highlights in the section from the Land to the Moon (Da Terra à Lua) that offer a unique, rhythmic and varied landscape, spanning dance, literature, music, culinary pleasures, stage performances and the deep green jungle. These include such works as An Owl, A Garden & The Writer by Sara Dolotadabi, A Câmara by Cristiane Bernardes and Tiago Aragão, L’amitié by Alain Cavalier and Menus Plaisirs - Les Troïgres by Frederick Wiseman. There are also two retrospectives worth watching, one dedicated to American cinema from the New Deal era and another featuring films by Anastasia Lapsui and Markku Lehmskallio.

Useful Information

Lisboa is the capital of Portugal and the country’s biggest city, located on the estuary of the Tejo river, on the European Atlantic coast. It is continental Europe’s westernmost capital. Portugal’s official language is Portuguese. Derived from Latin roots, Portuguese is the third most spoken European language in the world, with around 200 million speakers. Around 3 million people live in the Lisboa region, with around 600 thousand living in the capital itself. The Portuguese Constitution allows religious freedom, with various religions being practised in Portugal.

Electric voltage: 230 / 400 volts, on a 50-hertz frequency. The electric sockets adhere to European standards. Blade plugs (US standard) must be used in conjunction with a 230 volts transformer, as well as an adaptor.

In Lisboa winters are mild and summers hot, though moderated by its location near the sea. During spring and autumn there are usually sunny days with mild temperatures.

Local currency and Payments

The Euro is Portugal’s official currency, having been introduced in January 2002. 1 Euro is divided into 100 cents. There are coins of 1, 2, 5, 10, 20 and 50 cents and 1 and 2 Euros. The bills can be distinguished by their size and colour and have the following face values: 5, 10, 20, 50, 100, 200 and 500 Euros. In Portugal, payments can be made in cash, bank transfer, cheque, credit cards and debit cards.

Fado

INTANGIBLE HERITAGE OF HUMANITY
The song of Lisboa and the World

Classified as Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity by UNESCO since November 2011, Fado is the purest expression of Lisboa’s “soul”. Much more than just a song, Fado is a musical manifestation of feeling Portuguese and a city’s way of life, always accompanied by the solemn and melancholy chords of the Portuguese guitar.

Considered a brand inseparable from the culture and tradition of the Portuguese capital, Fado has been for at least two centuries, part of the city’s heritage that endowed it with soul and voice. But since influences from overseas, and from various cultures which arrived in Lisboa can also be heard in Fado, Lisboa’s song is now deservedly a shared heritage with the world. Inspired from a simple and sentimental language, Fado’s universal character surpasses all barriers and is now enjoyed by millions of fans worldwide. This internationalization of Fado is greatly due to the charisma and the voice of Amália Rodrigues, the most renowned fado singer of all time, who from the 1950’s took Lisboa’s song to the most prestigious venues, from Russia to Japan. More recently, a new generation of singers of this genre has given the song a new vitality, placing it in the circuits of World Music.

The ultimate international recognition of Fado comes with UNESCO’s highest recognition, whose award of the Intangible Heritage of Humanity title makes this a perfect example of how a centuries-old tradition of a city becomes the identity symbol of a people. Therefore, whenever the lights are dimmed in a fado house and someone says "Silence, Fado is about to be sung", this is not just a ritual that is being performed. It is, as Amália Rodrigues would say, “a strange form of life” that is being renewed.

CONCERTS

The National

6th October; at 8:30 pm; Sagres Campo Pequeno (metro: Campo Pequeno). Tickets: from 40 to 50 euros. More information at: sagrescampopequeno.pt

The National return to Portugal for a live presentation of their new studio album, ‘First Two Pages of Frankenstein’. With evocative sonorities and a captivating lyrical narrative, the new chapter of the band from New York, which was produced by the band itself and includes 11 songs and guest appearances by Taylor Swift, Phoebe Bridgers and Sufjan Stevens, channels the group’s chemistry and balances musicality with its idiosyncratic impulses.

Mayara Andrade

14th October; at 9:30 pm; Coliseu de Lisboa; Rua das Portas de Santo Antão, 96 (metro: Avenida). Tickets: from 20 to 45 euros. More information at: coliseulisboa.com

The Cape Verdean singer goes on the Portuguese stages with a new show, ‘reEncanto (voz & violão)’. Accompanied by her countryman Djodje Almeida on acoustic guitar, Mayara Andrade invites the audience to travel through her discography and rediscover some of her songs. In an intimate environment, the artist presents melodies which she composed herself and that are present in her works from 2006, in the album Navega, to the most recent songs of Manga, released in 2019.

Plácido Domingo, the famous Spanish tenor and one of the biggest names in world opera, gives a single concert accompanied by the Orquestra Sinfonietta de Lisboa, composed of 65 musicians. Singer and maestro, tenor and baritone, interpreter of great world themes and protagonist of opera films, under the direction of Francesco Rosi and Franco Zeffirelli, the renowned artist presents an unforgettable programme, with the most popular songs of his vast repertoire and the legendary melodies that he interprets.

Considered to be a success for contradicting every unwritten rule about which path leads to fame and success in today’s music industry, Morad, the Spanish rapper, goes on stage at Coliseu dos Recreios in Lisboa in a show with his own name. With no record company supporting him, no highlight on the radios, in a self-managed and organic way, Morad was able to enter the charts and playlists and become one of the most-streamed Spanish artists. He fluidly jumps from drill to trap, from classic rap to UK garage and instantly connects with the audience, sharing a language code, where everyone is the same. His growing international projection led him to the MDLR Euro Tour, that included 14 European cities in 8 different countries.
With a repertoire of more than forty years of songs, Rui Veloso continues to bring music in Portuguese to the most diverse stages. The singer, songwriter and guitarist, who has a solid and renowned career, goes on stage at Coliseu de Lisboa once again for an intimate concert accompanied by a guitar trio. The singer from Porto started in music at the age of six and at 23 he released his first record. Today, he is one of the most influential artists in Portuguese music, with hits that transcend generations, such as 'Chico Fininho'.
Gilberto Gil is on the road through Europe with the ‘Aquele Abraço’ tour. Celebrating the 60th anniversary of his music career and 50 world tours, the musician also takes advantage of the dates to pay tribute to the several very prestigious theatres throughout Europe that welcomed him and allowed him to present his work to his fans and those who were curious about his musical style. In Lisboa, the diversity of Brazilian culture, present in the well-known repertoire that he brings in his baggage and his voice, will echo in the company of his sons Bern Gil, on guitar, bass and vocals, and José Gil, on vocals and drums, and his grandson João Gil also on bass and guitar.

The Death of the Raven

More than a play, ‘A Morte de um Corvo’ is an immersive experience of visual, scenic and technological impact, which proposes a journey to 1924. The plot revolves around an anticipated funeral, the death of a Portuguese poet. It all begins when Fernando Pessoa invites Mário de Sá Carneiro to the initiation ritual into the Raven Association, a society which seeks the secret of life beyond death. The Association is led by Edgar Allan Poe, who is extremely jealous of Pessoa’s popularity. Ofélia’s rejection, Mário’s death and the deep disbelief in himself, among other events, will make the poet sink into a depressive cycle which will end in his death.

AKACORLEONE presents in Lisboa a new exhibition that combines two traditional Portuguese elements: ceramics and tile. The focus on this artistic expression dates back to 2022, with his first exhibition around these materials. In this first showing, the artist merged the tile art with contemporary art, taking advantage of the inexperience in the technique to explore ceramics. The experimental project was inspired by improvisation, experimentation and unpredictability, which allowed him to make the most of this unattached approach. Before the opening of ‘Illusions of Clay’, AKACORLEONE did an artistic residency in pottery in Viana do Alentejo with the intention of reexploring the technique. The present exhibition is the result of past experiences with the creation of a number of original pottery pieces inspired by the recently acquired knowledge.

From 12th October; Hotel Tivoli Avenida da Liberdade; Av. da Liberdade, 185 (metro: Avenida).

Along the paths of tile art in Lisboa

Present in Portugal for more than five hundred years, tile is still today a characteristic that marks and distinguishes the urban landscape of Lisboa. The Arab legacy which dates back to the 13th century started to gain artistic expression by the end of the 15th century with the ornamentation of walls in ecclesiastic buildings and in the Portuguese court. Its double function as wall protection and embellishment made this artistic style evolve over time, surviving from the baroque period until modernism, and today it is a widely used adornment and characteristic of Portuguese architecture. Although this technique is seen a little all over the country, it is in Lisboa that the tile stands out the most. There are countless examples where we can find tile murals or panels, from historic monuments to building façades, stores, restaurants or cafes.
In a stroll through Lisboa, it is possible to identify various modern works produced with this material. In Parque das Nações, where the Portuguese discoveries, caravels and the sea are the main theme, there are countless examples. From the metro station, with its multicolour panel representing the five continents, diverse myths and legends connected to the sea, such as mermaids and other sea creatures, to the façade of the Oceanário, with many sea animals in shades of blue and white. In Avenida D. João II, the mural by Icelandic plastic artist Erró on the façade of a hotel catches the eye of all Marvel universe lovers with an enormous panel full of science fiction characters.

A little all over Lisboa there are many examples. In one the city’s main roads, Avenida Calouste Gulbenkian, there is a mural full of coloured vertical bands with striped and abstract elements. In Cidade Universitária, the façade of the Rectory of the Universidade de Lisboa also consists of a geometric panel with triangular shapes in different shades of blue that convey a unique effect to the building. Another case that stands out is the mural in Jardim Botto Machado at Campo de Santa Clara, where the Feira da Ladra (Flea Market) takes place. Created in 2016, the work consists of 53 thousand tiles, in a 170 meter long mural, representing a modern Lisboa in a fantastic universe, with a rainbow and hot air balloons. In Avenida Infante Santo, the panel ‘O Mar’ (‘The Sea’), in plain urban landscape, was designed by painter Maria Keil and represents the oceanic universe, with seashells, cowries, boats and a fisherman. This avenue also has the contribution of several other artists, such as Carlos Botelho, Alice Jorge, Júlio Pomar and Rolando Sá Nogueira, who made it more colourful. Until 2019, on that same avenue, there was only one staircase that was tiled. A detail solved by street artist Add Fuel. The most recent mural gets its inspiration from the remaining ones and was created as a tribute to the Estrela neighbourhood, where it is located.

From the most monochromatic to the most colourful, from the most ancient to the most modern, in Lisboa, the tile is present in all its shapes and colours and has many stories to tell.

Electrotypes are a result of the scientific and technological advances in the end of the 18th century and make it possible to produce very precise reproductions of objects made from gold, silver and other metals, using moulds, a chemical solution and an electrical current. The fascination with this new technique paved the way for it to become an integral part of the activity of museums, which sought to collect electrotypes in addition to photographs or plaster casts. As aesthetic, formal and ornamental models, these reproductions (along with original objects) took on an important role in the visual education of the public and of artists and craftspeople, enhancing the formation of taste and proficiency within the artistic industries. ‘Tão Úteis como os Originais’ is an exhibition with 90 objects, mainly belonging to the Academia de Belas-Artes de Lisboa (Academy of Fine Arts of Lisboa).

The Other Life of Puppets

The exhibition ‘A Outra Vida das Marionetas’ reveals puppets which have been collected over time and have never been shown before. Originally from Europe, Africa and Asia, made between the end of the 19th and 20th centuries and using different manipulation techniques – sticks, gloves, strings or mixed techniques - these pieces have been used since ancient times. Often travelling over the centuries, for many people they were the only form of contact with the theatre. Both the most erudite and the most popular ones were used to tell stories, represent daily life, convey political, religious or social criticism and satire, but, above all, to entertain those who watched. Today, not having that purpose anymore, they are presented to the public as a memory of times gone by.
The Belgium artist Berlinde de Bruyckere, who has marked her artistic path with the development of important work in the fields of sculpture and drawing, is exhibiting for the first time in a museum in Portugal a showing specifically designed for the opening of the Contemporary Art Museum of the Centro Cultural de Belém. It is a work contemplating two performances by Romeu Runa and focusing on the figure of the angel as an intermediary creature to address contemporary issues regarding gender, metamorphosis and meditation.
Urban [R]evolution is the largest national urban art exhibition. Original installations tell the story of the urban art development, from its initial phase, in the form of graffiti and paintings in the metro, until the renowned street art. The different exhibition cores had the direct intervention of each artist during the assembly process. Various immersive areas were created exclusively for this showing, transforming the Cordoaria into a space that reflects the different styles and techniques which have evolved since the beginning of urban art until today.

Vita Prima. Santo António in Portugal is intended to be a journey through the life of the young Fernando de Bulhões. Santo António had two lives with a turning point which was his joining the Order of Friars Minor. If, on the one hand, in Italy and France, he is better known as a preacher and a teacher of this Order, on the other hand, in Portugal, oral tradition has preserved the memory of this figure’s childhood and youth. This exhibition is a proposal to understand how the saint and the values associated with him (sacred and profane) became pillars of Lisboa’s identity.

The celebration of the New Year, the Boys and Girls Parties, the purification, protection and funerary rites, as well as the fertility cults and the end of year ceremonies are some of the festivities and rituals of Japan, a country full of religious traditions mostly originating in Shintoism, to which practices from Buddhism and Christianity were added. The exhibition 'Floating World', an expression referring to the ephemeral pleasures of daily life, presents a number of Japanese prints that profile Edo, present-day Tokyo, through two themes illustrative of the popular culture of the city between the 18th and 19th centuries: female beauty, personified in the figure of the courtesan, and contemplation of the natural world. The exhibition also includes surimono, exclusive and limited editions of woodcuts, only accessible to some citizens of the Japanese society of that time.
