The International Festival of Puppets and Animated Forms invades Lisboa once again for another edition. With about 20 shows, most of which are national premieres, both from emerging artists and from renowned companies and creators. Between São Luiz Teatro Municipal, Teatro Luís de Camões, Museu de Lisboa - Palácio Pimenta, Teatro do Bairro, Teatro Taborda, Museu Nacional do Teatro e da Dança, Centro Cultural da Malaposta and Cinemateca Portuguesa it will be possible to see works from Germany, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, The Netherlands, Israel, Lebanon and Portugal. The festival starts with a party at the São Luiz Teatro Municipal, which can be described as a puppetry dance on vinyl support and music from the 50s to the present day. Besides the prepared shows, there is also room for other activities, such as workshops, film showings and talks with the creators.
This year, the festival focusing on the seventh art celebrates its 20th edition and has more than 250 films of different genres to show. The event will open with 'Something You Said Last Night', a debut from director and screenwriter Luis De Filippis, and close with 'The Adults', the new film by Dustin Guy Defa, between drama and comedy, that American independent cinema has been so good at exploring in recent decades. More than 40 films participate in the section International Competition and the section dedicated to the bewildering and bizarre, 'Boca do Inferno', offers a vast and varied line-up, ranging from comedy to the Japanese sci-fi classics. The festival is intended for all ages, with Indiejúnior offering the session ‘Curtas na piscina’ (Short films in the pool), ‘Curtas para Toda a Família’ (Short films for all the family) and ‘Cinema ao Colo’ (Lap cinema). Besides the showing of films, IndieLisboa brings the LisbonTalks, with masterclasses, talks and debates about cinema, as well as the official IndieByNight parties.
The festival which explores the crossing between image and live presentation brings nine projects that make up Moment I, six of which are absolute premieres. Between theatre, dance, films and installations, Temps d’Images will bring culture to spaces such as Mercado do Rato, Teatro Ibérico, Fundação Arpad Szenes – Vieira da Silva, Espaço Casa Cheia and Damas bar. During the month of May, it will be possible to attend the premiere of the play ‘Este Peixe é um Robalo’, by António Alvarenga and Cristóvão Cunha, as well as the performance ‘Looking from a window above’, by Jessica Guez, that presents an exhibition in a show which is born from the simple desire to dance with her paintings.
Cumplicidades Festival

11th to 20th May; in several cultural venues in Lisboa. Tickets: vary depending on the show.
More information at: festivalcumplicidades.pt

The Cumplicidades Festival challenges artists to create under a certain angle related to the theme ‘Limites e frontei- ras’ (Limits and borders). With Portuguese and foreign artists, both emerging and renowned, whose work areas can range from dance to artistic disciplines that work the body and movement, the performances focus on the thought around the concept of border as a limit and the limit that determines a border. We mean cultural borders, between countries, regions, cities, neighbourhoods, the body itself, the inner places. The festival promotes the urban dynamic with a programme that aims at admiration and restlessness.

FESTIVALS

MOGA Caparica

The MOGA festival is a fusion of electronic music, beach parties and several events happening simultaneously. Inspired by the vibrations of the Atlantic, it takes place both in Essaouira, in Morocco, and in Costa da Caparica. The name derives from the word Mogador, which is how the Portuguese, several centuries ago, called the Moroccan land. But Moga is also the name of a tribe, a community of nomads, who share values and lifestyles that can be experienced at the festival. Between sunset parties at the beach, sea parties, brunches, surf and yoga, there are electronic music concerts, with artists such as Bradley Zero, Shanti Celeste, Danilo Plessow (MCDE), Heidi Lawden & Lovefingers, Gerd Janson, Kerri Chandler, Sadar Bahar, Hunee, Chaim b2b Jenia Parsol, Jimi Jules and many others.

The rhythm of Brazilian music will invade Lisboa for a new festival that wants to show ‘O Melhor do Brasil em Portugal’ to the sound of Ivete Sangalo, Ana Castela and Gustavo Mioto. To show different aspects of the music of this brother country, Ivete Sangalo opens the show with ‘Tudo Colorido’, a dynamic production, with rhythm, light, sound and visual animations, naturally not forgetting hits like ‘Festa’, ‘Quando a chuva passar’ or ‘Se eu não te amasse tanto assim’. From the veterans to the new generation, Ana Castela, who is the most streamed artist on Spotify in Brazil, brings her greatest hits, ‘Pipoco’, ‘Roça em mim’ and ‘Neon’, to the Portuguese audience. When we talk about the different Brazilian rhythms, we cannot forget the sertanejo and therefore Gustavo Mioto goes on stage to represent it with songs like ‘Com ou sem mim’, the most played song on the radio in Brazil in 2020.

Fado
INTANGIBLE HERITAGE OF HUMANITY
The song of Lisboa and the World

Classified as Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity by UNESCO since November 2011, Fado is the purest expression of Lisboa’s “soul”. Much more than just a song, Fado is a musical manifestation of feeling Portuguese and a city’s way of life, always accompanied by the solemn and melancholy chords of the Portuguese guitar.

Considered a brand inseparable from the culture and tradition of the Portuguese capital, Fado has been for at least two centuries, part of the city’s heritage that endowed it with soul and voice. But since influences from overseas, and from various cultures which arrived in Lisboa can also be heard in Fado, Lisboa’s song is now deservedly a shared heritage with the world. Inspired from a simple and sentimental language, Fado’s universal character surpasses all barriers and is now enjoyed by millions of fans worldwide. This internationalization of Fado is greatly due to the charisma and the voice of Amália Rodrigues, the most renowned fado singer of all time, who from the 1950’s took Lisboa’s song to the most prestigious venues, from Russia to Japan. More recently, a new generation of singers of this genre has given the song a new vitality, placing it in the circuits of World Music.

The ultimate international recognition of Fado comes with UNESCO’s highest recognition, whose award of the Intangible Heritage of Humanity title makes this a perfect example of how a centuries-old tradition of a city becomes the identity symbol of a people. Therefore, whenever the lights are dimmed in a fado house and someone says “Silence, Fado is about to be sung”, this is not just a ritual that is being performed. It is, as Amália Rodrigues would say, “a strange form of life” that is being renewed.
Fado Houses

Here visitors can experience the whole atmosphere and rituals associated with Lisboa’s song and listen to this language of emotions. Set in the historic districts of the city such as Alfama, Bairro Alto, Lapa and Alcântara, there are diverse establishments which host regular performances of fado, with resident artists.

Tickets: from 40 to 60 euros. More information at: coliseulisboa.com

Considered to be one of the greatest operatic creations, the work by Italian composer Giuseppe Verdi goes on stage in Portugal. With four acts and eight scenes, the story goes back to ancient Egypt and the invasion of Ethiopia. The drama unfolds between the Ethiopian princess made a slave, Aida, and the Egyptian general Radamés, commander of the occupying forces. Although his love was reciprocated, Radamés dreamed of returning to his country crowned with a laurel wreath for his victorious battles. On the other hand, the king of Ethiopia, Aida’s father, organized the troops in an attempt to free his daughter and condemn Radamés for Aida’s captivity and slavery.
The gardens of Lisboa

In May, Spring reveals itself in all its splendour in Lisboa. Flowers of the most varied colours and shapes bloom, making the walks through the streets and the gardens so much more inviting.

With a view of the Tejo, benches in the shadow and an enormous lawn to enjoy the city landscape, Parque Eduardo VII is the largest and one of the best-known green spaces in Lisboa. Covering 25 hectares, it is composed of a central lawn bordered by Portuguese cobblestone sidewalks, which divide the garden in two green areas. Besides the vast wooded area, in the north part we can find the Estufa Fria (Cold Greenhouse) and the Estufa Quente (Hot Greenhouse). Here, the faunal diversity is integrated into a landscape with creeks and waterfalls, which paths, among palm trees and banana trees, lead the curious visitors to a wide plant universe, that is also inhabited by some tropical birds.

A few metres ahead, we can take the Elevador do Lavra (Lavra funicular) to the top of one of Lisboa’s hills, where Jardim do Torel stands out for its panoramic view over Avenida da Liberdade and the Baixa Pom-balina (the downtown of Lisboa). It was created with multiple levels and here we can find lawns, a pool and benches to rest in the shadow, read a book or simply enjoy the landscape.

There are many examples of green spaces. Jardim Botânico da Ajuda (Ajuda Botanical Garden), with over 250 years of history, was created with the aim of gathering the greatest possible faunal variety and has a vast quantity of aromatic and medicinal plants to this day. Parque Tejo, on its turn, is the largest green space at Parque das Nações and one of the richest in terms of biodiversity, profiting from its proximity to the river, which makes it the perfect place to spend time as a family or among friends, enjoying the city.

Parque Botânico de Monteiro-Mor (Monteiro-Mor Botanical Park), at Lumiar, is another pleasant space to be in contact with nature, as well as Jardim da Estrela, with a romantic inspiration and designed as an English garden. To these we must add Jardim da Gulbenkian, with more than 230 plant and at least 40 bird species, Parque Bensaúde and its maple avenue and Jardim da Cerca da Graça, which has three viewpoints, a lawn and an orchard.

40 minutes away from de centre of Lisboa, Sin-tra offers various green spaces, among which the fantastic mountain range stands out with its unique paths. But there are other corners to be discovered, such as Quinta da Ribafria, a 16th century manor, often the stage for cultural events, or Parque da Liberdade. The latter is the very definition of garden in the centre of the historic village of Sintra, with an essentially natural vegetation cover and multiple ecological niches.

In Cascais, the highlight goes to Parque Marechal Carmona, perfect for romantic strolls, spending time as a family, catching some sun or enjoying the life of the ducks, the roosters or the peacocks walking around. In that same municipality, the Parque Urbano Bosque dos Gaios is the best choice for those who cannot do without a bicycle ride, a walk or an outdoor exercise circuit.

Parque da Paz, on the south bank of the Tejo, in Almada, can be added to this vast list with 50 hectares of lawns and paths to walk or exercise.

Among the seven hills, in the centre of the outskirts of Lisboa, there are many gardens to discover. Find out for yourself.

In a city where nature has been forbidden, a small crime by a simple man triggers a chain of unexpected consequences. This exhibition reveals the behind-the-scenes of the almost 11-minute long puppet short film directed by Bruno Caetano. The Portuguese film is one of the most shown all over the world, having participated in more than a hundred international festivals and won a dozen awards. Composed of streets, squares and façades of a miniature Lisboa, the exhibition shows several of the film’s sets, as well as used models, casts and graphic research material. As part of the exhibition, it is also possible to see the short film.

Boy at Work is the first solo exhibition by Cosima von Bonin in Portugal. With remarkable works at Tate Britain and the Museum of Modern Art, in New York, the German plastic artist uses installations, conceptual sculptures, fabrics, wood, music, films and objects she found. Cosima von Bonin uses manufacture and popular culture to question social relations, identity and appropriation.
The exhibition ‘Jorge Barradas no Jardim da Europa’ represents an artistic journey through about 70 works of the Portuguese modernist. Organized in four sections, this showing presents a series of paintings in different formats and techniques, which transport the visitors to the bohemian life in the Lisbon of the 1920s and 1930s, between cafés and theatres of the capital. This is the biggest exhibition ever made about the artist, gathering works from his 60-year-long career from Museu Nacional de Arte Contemporânea, Instituto de História da Arte of FCSH/NOVA and Fundação Millennium bcp.

In ‘Plástico: Reconstruir o Nosso Mundo’ the visitors will find three sections about the origin, the evolution and the possible future of this material. The exhibition does not intend to be anti-plastic, but throughout the sections it reveals the human relationship with these objects and casings, from the way they are made, to how they are used and discarded. The exhibition begins with a videographic installation about the geological condition that makes it possible to manufacture plastic. The second section goes through the history of plastic, from its natural origin to the experimentation with synthetic materials and the third takes stock of the present efforts to rethink plastic, develop alternatives, reduce its production and consumption, as well as encourage its reuse.

Over 26 years, Luís Caetano Pereira de Carvalho built the centre piece of the exhibition ‘Cidade-Miniatura’, which the museum team affectionately calls ‘the fireman’s model’. The meticulous work made in polychrome wood is 2,21 meters long and 0,89 meters wide, in a 1:1000 scale. This model represents Lisboa in the first decades of the 20th century. It represents all the carefully studied buildings which were created with the characteristics and colours of the time, revealing the evolution of the city and the changes time has brought about since then.

A Barrier Against the Pacific

How does Japan prepare for the risk of almost permanent destruction? Alice F. Martins presents the answer in the photographic exhibition ‘Uma Barreira contra o Pacífico’. With 46 black and white pictures, the artist portrays Hudai, the village that survived almost intact the tsunami which swept the northeast of the Japanese coast after the big earthquake of 2011. The reason is the 200 meter long and 15,5-meter-high anti-tsunami barrier of walls and hydraulic gates. This kind of construction is not unusual in Japan; however, this infrastructure stands out for its concept, adaptation to the region’s topography and for being planned based on past catastrophes.
